Even AAP insiders are questioning Kejriwal's selective outrage

DELHI DIARIES: Why Rahul Gandhi's office was always concerned about snooping, and trouble brewing in Lalu's RJD

This past week, the Aam Aadmi Party veered away from its play-safe policy with the Delhi chief minister, Arvind Kejriwal, slamming the Centre for the income tax raids on the media outlets, Dainik Bhaskar and Bharat Samachar. After the AAP received a drubbing in the 2019 Lok Sabha polls, Kejriwal steered clear of direct verbal attacks on the prime minister, Narendra Modi, and gradually reinvented himself as a benign urban Hindu leader of the Hindi belt. Kejriwal and most of his party have confined themselves to speaking out on issues of immediate concern in Delhi, or in states where they wish to expand. Even when the Delhi-based website, NewsClick, and its executives were raided for five days in February, the AAP kept mum. The new-found voice, said a party source, was an indication of the level of quid pro quo the party has with Dainik Bhaskar — the world's third largest, and India's most circulated, newspaper. The source said, "Bhaskar carried our ads as well as content, unlike NewsClick that is mostly critical of us and gives little space to our leaders." The AAP's selective outrage has raised uncomfortable questions even within its fold. Questions are being asked on how different the anti-corruption party is from its competitors on civil liberties, especially free speech.

Rahul Gandhi's office has always lived under the fear of illegal surveillance, much before the world heard of the Pegasus spyware. This suspicion of being perpetually snooped on was based on two factors: one, substantive inputs from intelligence officials who were loyal to the Congress and, two, the warning by Gujarat leaders who had briefed the party's central leadership on the alleged style of functioning of Narendra Modi and Amit Shah.

Congress leaders from Gujarat gave specific inputs about businessmen being warned within hours of conversation with them. They said it was almost impossible to escape the elaborate spying networks in Gujarat. Rahul Gandhi and his close aides always preferred to talk on landlines and, if approached by any important caller on the mobile, promptly advised them to use landlines. Some of them asked for communication over email instead of text messages. There was an unwritten rule in the office to change passwords as frequently as possible, preferably every evening. Some of them often wondered why the government was more interested in the political operations in the Opposition camp than in the activities of nefarious outfits. Apart from information about political strategies, special focus was put on finding out which businessman was in touch with the Congress. Now that the Pegasus scandal has exploded, the party hopes that it will be taken to its logical conclusion through judicial intervention. But nobody has any hope of permanent relief from the problem. Nagaland was witness to a significant, if debatable, political development on Monday — the principal Opposition party, the Naga People's Front, unanimously endorsed the 'concept of an Opposition-less government' and decided to become a part of the ruling People's Democratic Alliance in the 'larger interest of the Naga people'. This interest includes facilitating an early, amicable and inclusive solution to the stalled Naga peace process. The PDA comprises the Nationalist Democratic Progressive Party and the Bharatiya Janata Party which defeated the NPF in the last assembly polls which were held in 2018. This is the second time since 2015 that the state will be having an Opposition-less assembly. The NPF headed the state government in Nagaland after eight members of the legislative assembly from the Congress switched sides.

Although a formal decision by the PDA is yet to be taken, the development has drawn criticism from the Congress which does not have a single MLA in the 60-member assembly. Questions are being raised about the progress made during the first time there was an Opposition-less assembly or whether such a practice was good for a healthy democracy. But the NPF dropped another surprise when it dubbed the PDA government's July 17 directive — it made vaccination compulsory for its employees — "unreasonable and dictatorial" in nature. It is not clear whether the criticism was a pressure tactic to elicit a positive response from the PDA or a means to convey the importance of an Opposition in a democracy, but the NPF's stand left many flummoxed.

On a fine day recently, Jagadanand Singh, the Bihar unit president of Lalu Prasad's Rashtriya Janata Dal, resigned, plunging the party into a crisis. The former minister and parliamentarian was apparently piqued because a greenhorn MLA sat in his chair at the party headquarters in Patna, that too while he was present. The incident allegedly had the support of Lalu's eldest son, the legislator, Tej Pratap Yadav, who dislikes the veteran leader. To make matters worse, Lalu, known to be a doting father, did not chastise his son. However, all senior leaders accused Jagadanand of making a mountain out of a molehill.

They reminded him of the days when Lalu would be constantly chewing paan, zarda and khaini and spitting everywhere, with drops of his spit landing on the clothes of senior leaders and IAS officers, but none of them would say anything. "Has [Jagadanand] forgotten everything and the party culture?" One has to tolerate several things to remain relevant in the RJD. He has also tolerated many things," a senior party leader said. Last heard, Lalu had not accepted the resignation. Collective leadership is the call in the Karnataka Congress with two heavyweights — the state unit chief, DK Shivakumar, and the leader of the Opposition, PC Siddaramaiah — pulling in different directions. The differences took the two leaders to Delhi where Rahul Gandhi urged them to work towards the 2023 state elections as a team. But the crux of the matter is Shivakumar's ambition to become CM, since there is a feeling that the party stands a decent chance in the next election if internal differences in the BJP fester on. As the principal troubleshooter of the party, Shivakumar carries a lot of weight even in the high command.

21 people test Covid-19 positive in Jharkhand village in 2 days as state fears threat due to variants

Ranchi, The Haradag Khurd village in Garhwa district, Jharkhand has been put on high alert after 21 people tested positive for the coronavirus disease (Covid-19) in two days after migrant workers returned to the village from Madhya Pradesh. Health officials from the state said that 19 people were found with the infection initially while two more cases were found on the following day. All 21 infected people, including eight children between two and 12 years of age, have been admitted to the Sadar hospital in Garhwa, news agency PTI reported citing state officials. All contacts of the patients have been identified and isolated, the officials further said. A single worker, among the many who returned from a colliery area in Madhya Pradesh, was initially found positive for Covid-19. It is suspected that the villagers might have contracted the infection from the worker, as the Delta variant of the virus has been detected in the region in MP from where the workers had returned. Meanwhile, the state's additional chief secretary of health Arun Kumar Singh said that the administration was taking all possible steps to contain the spread. He further said that all officials in the area were kept on high alert following the outbreak. "Initially 19 villagers were found positive. All of them have been admitted to Garhwa Sadar hospital. We are taking all possible steps to contain the spread of the virus and have kept officials on high alert in the area," PTI quoted Singh as saying on Friday. Following this, the civil surgeon of Garhwa Dr Kamlesh Kumar confirmed state officials, all contacts of the patients have been identified and isolated, the officials further said. A single worker, among the many who returned from a colliery area in Madhya Pradesh, was initially found positive for Covid-19. It is suspected that the villagers might have contracted the infection from the worker, as the Delta variant of the virus has been detected in the region in MP from where the workers had returned. Meanwhile, the state's additional chief secretary of witnessing a lesser number of daily cases in the past few days. "Our surveillance team is visiting villages and we are taking all possible steps to contain the spread. Special precautions are taken in the village Haradag Khurd with a population of about 300 villagers," deputy commissioner of Garhwa Rajesh Kumar Pathak said.

Dr Kumar said that the sample of the first villager testing positive in the village was collected during a routine sample collection at a railway station. The health machinery swung into action and 25 persons including all his family members were subjected to tests along with two other families with whom he interacted, he then said.

Uttarakhand BJP in poll mode, sets programmes for next 2 months

Dehradun, With only several months left for the Uttarakhand assembly elections in 2022, the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) seems to have already rolled the dice by setting its state-wide programmes for the next two months in poll preparations, HT has learnt. The programmes were set during the core committee meeting of the party state unit on Thursday evening which was led by party national general secretary (organisation) BL Santosh in the presence of chief minister Pushkar Singh Dhami, party state president Madan Kaushik, party state-in-charge Dushyant Kumar and other senior leaders. During the meeting, Santosh, along with other state leaders, discussed the strategy for the upcoming polls and asked them to implement the roadmap for the same on the ground with all possible efforts. One of the party senior leaders who was present in the meeting on condition of anonymity, said, "The central leader directed all the state leaders to get actively involved in the preparation for 2022 under which various issues were discussed." During that discussion, the issues of Char Dham Devasthanam Management Act and demand for new land law for the state also featured prominently as both of them are significantly connected to the people of the state.

Ruckus in AMC general body meeting; Congress's women corporators get on dais, tear papers

Ahmedabad: Tagore Hall, the venue of the general body meeting of the Ahmedabad Municipal Corporation (AMC), witnessed huge ruckus on Friday, with members raising issues like increase in treatment and deposit charges at SVP Hospital as well as alleged corruption in construction of Jagatpur railway crossing overbridge, where the builder was accused of not paying his contribution of the total cost.

With the verbal exchange heating up, Congress corporators Kamla Chawla and Rajshri Kesri climbed onto the dais and started tearing papers.

Chawla, former leader of Opposition in AMC, had sought action against Siddhi group builder in the Jagatpur overbridge matter. At this point, someone from the Congress accused the ruling BJP of "taking supari" of citizens. This triggered massive protests from the BJP, followed by members of both parties coming face-to-face. Such was the commotion that the mayor had to call off the meeting. "The AMC administration has made it seem like SVP Hospital is only for the rich. The AMC-MET has raised the charges and deposit at SVP to such a level that it is not affordable for the common people and only the VIPs can take treatment there. This is a conspiracy to keep the poor away," alleged Chawla.

"Recently, the deposit to be paid on admission to the hospital had been raised. Irrespective of the ailment, the treatment is not started until the patients pay a deposit of Rs 5,000 to Rs 20,000. The BJP rulers of AMC have closed the doors of SVP for the poor and the middle-class people. Not just this, the Ma Amrutam and Ma Vatsalya schemes of the state government have been stopped at SVP for past one-and-a-half years," she added. She alleged that the 108 emergency services staff has been instructed not to take patients to SVP and send them to VS or Civil Hospital instead. This comment invited objection from the BJP, but she snubbed them saying they could respond during their turn. There was some commotion over this and the meeting had to be suspended for some time. When the discussions were resumed, Chawla said that the AMC had announced a nomenclature policy wherein if any party was willing to bear a certain share of cost of construction of a road, community hall, flyover or any such project, they could give it a name of their choice. "But the ruling party misused this policy to benefit a builder," she said, citing media reports about the Jagatpur crossing flyover. Chawla alleged that there was no plan to build a flyover or underpass at Jagatpur crossing in 2017. "Several residential schemes were coming up in the area, including Godrej Garden City. People would not have been interested in purchasing homes and averting any risk of their extinction, will not have the big cats translocated anywhere outside the state after all. The Rs 1,300 crore Project Lion recommended setting up of eight satellite habitats for the king of the jungle apart from the Gir sanctuary in its native Saurashtra itself.

"taken supari" of Amdavadis. A ruckus ensued, and the women Congress corporators reached the dais and started tearing papers in protest. The mayor quickly approved the board's works and called off the meeting. The Congress corporators have sought a police complaint against the Siddhi group on the grounds of cheating. According to them, the builder had promised in 2017 to initially bear 50% of the cost of construction of flyover near Jagatpur crossing before bringing it down to 25%. However, he allegedly asked for his files to be cleared if AMC wanted the funds, as per media reports. The Congress corporators are now demanding that a police complaint be registered against the builder, Mukesh Patel, for cheating, fraud and offering bribe.

Sardar Vallabhbhai National Institute of Technology student bags Rs 40 lakh package

SURAT: Amid the desperation of the pandemic, Sardar Vallabhbhai National Institute of Technology (SVNIT) has many reasons to cheer. A girl student of its electronics and communication engineering department, Sweetie Jain, has broken the records of highest salary in campus placements by bagging a Rs 40 lakh salary per annum offer from a software giant. The second highest salary to be offered is Rs 37.5 lakh by a software giant to another student, Prithesh Tripathi, from computer engineering branch. Over 52 percent students out of the eligible were selected in SVNIT's campus placement even as global business and industries are adversely affected by Covid-19.

Like in 2020, this year too the entire placement process for the varsity was conducted online. Daughter of a sweet shop owner from Sawai Madhopur in Rajasthan, Sweetie is the only person from her family who has been offered a handsome starting package. "Majority of my family members are in business. I am probably the only one to get such a good starting salary," she said.

In 2020, out of 1,056

eligible students of Bachelor of Technology (B Tech), Master of Technology (M Tech) and Master of Science (M Sc), total 666 students were recruited. Whereas, this year 539 out of 1,029 eligible students, had got placements. "Last year around 60 percent students were recruited in campus placement while this year 52 percent students had been recruited. A troubling condition were feared due to continuation of the global pandemic in second year; however, it is better and the situation is improving," said Dr R. A. Christian, in-charge campus and placement.

Prithesh, who is from Ananthapur in Andhra Pradesh, is happy with the overall good placements in SVNIT. "Students were not expecting a good campus placement this year but the overall recruitments are good. We hope that the situation improves further," he said.

Anmedabad: Thaltej man tortures, starves his girl child

AHMEDABAD: A 28-year-old Thaltej resident has accused her husband of forcing her eight-year-old to sleep on the floor and torture her because she was a girl child. She alleged that he would thrash the two of them when angry and would not even provide grains so that she could cook a meal for the child.

Filing a complaint with Women's Police (West), she said that her husband hit their daughter on the forehead with his cellphone, prompting her to leave the house.

She told police that she got married in 2011 according to her family's wishes. Soon, she came to know that her husband was an alcoholic and raised the issue with her in-laws who reportedly told her that men in their community drink, and there was no shame in it.

She said that she gave birth to a daughter in 2013. However, her in-laws began harassing her more and more, picking up fights over petty issues. "My in-laws would not allow my daughter to sit or sleep on the sofa and the bed. They would always force her to sit and sleep on the floor. They did not even provide rice and pulses so that I could cook khichdi for my daughter. I had to bring these from my parents' place," she said in the FIR. She alleged that whenever her husband got angry, he would thrash her and their daughter. She also claimed that her in-laws had taken Rs 67 lakh from her parents to buy land in her name, but they embezzled the money.

When her husband threw his cellphone at their daughter, she finally approached police and filed a complaint of breach of trust, domestic violence and causing hurt against her husband and in-laws.

Eight new satellite habitats for lions planned in Gujarat

AHMEDABAD: Project Lion, envisaged with the objective of preserving the Asiatic lions and averting any risk of their extinction, will not have the big cats translocated anywhere outside the state after all. The Rs 1,300 crore Project Lion recommended setting up of eight satellite habitats for the king of the jungle apart from the Gir sanctuary in its native Saurashtra itself.

The project has received preliminary approval of the Union ministry for forest and environment and has been sent for final nod of the union cabinet, top sources said.

Satellite habitats for lions have been proposed in Umrath Virdi in Bhavnagar, Gir, Girnar, Mitiyala, Jesor-Hipawadi, Babra Virdi, Hingolgaad, the coastal belt from Rajula to Jafraabad and extending up to Mahuva among others, senior state forest department officials said. Ironically, the current version of Project Lion rolled into motion is in sharp contrast with project lion draft prepared by the Wildlife Institute of India (WII).

The WII had recommended shifting Asiatic lions outside Saurashtra to sanctuaries in Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan and north Gujarat. The Project Lion draft prepared by WII had recommended shifting of a few lions to seven sanctuaries namely Madhav National Park, Gandhi Sagar Wildlife Sanctuary, and Kuno Palpur in Madhya Pradesh; Sitamata Wildlife Sanctuary, Mukundara Hills Tiger Reserve and Kumbalgarh Wildlife Sanctuary in Rajasthan and Jessore-Balaram Ambaji Wildlife Sanctuary in Banaskantha, Gujarat.

This proposal, however, was rejected by the Union ministry of forest and environment. "Gujarat is loath to translocate any lions outside the state."

This is the major reason behind rejection of the WII proposal which recommended shifting a small population of lions to half a dozen sanctuaries in neighboring states and one in Gujarat. A WII member and lion expert

Gujarat govt does U-turn; only 150 people allowed at weddings

Gandhinagar: The Gujarat government seems to have remembered that the Covid-19 pandemic is not yet over, something that health experts have been repeating frequently. Two days after raising the upper limit of guests allowed at functions, the state government announced fresh guidelines for large gatherings.

Now, a maximum of 150 people will be allowed at marriage venues. On July 28, at a meeting of the core committee chaired by Chief Minister Vijay Rupani, it had been decided that a maximum of 400 people, or 50 per cent of the venue capacity, would be allowed for closed-place events. While this had been brought down to 150, religious and political gatherings can have up to 400 persons in attendance.

This could be a lesson well-learned from the past. The spike in Covid-19 cases during the second wave had been blamed largely on the election rallies earlier this year and lifting of Covid-related restrictions when cases started reducing.

Besides raising the upper limit of guests, the state government has also announced relaxation of night curfew in eight municipal corporation areas by an hour. The night curfew in all other districts had been lifted earlier.

Gujarat: Business owners seek extension of vaccination deadline

AHMEDABAD: As traders and private office employees wait in queue for hours to get their vaccine shot, Gujarat Chamber of Commerce and Industry as well as the Gujarat Traders' Federation have urged the government to further extend the July 31 deadline for mandatory vaccination. Serpentine queues of people were seen outside vaccination centres at Pandit Deendayal Auditorium in Bodakdev, Tagore Hall in Paldi and several other centres in Vastrapur and Maninagar areas of the city over the past few days. The state's apex industry body, on Friday, sought extension of the deadline till August 15, according to the representation made before the Gujarat chief minister.

Despite a series of drives organised by civic authorities in Ahmedabad as well as other centres, several office-going employees as well as traders are yet to take their first shot, according to industry sources. Last week itself, a vaccination camp for traders was organised at GCCI office on Sunday. The representation followed after a series of requests from traders and shop-owners who struggle to get vaccinated. Ahmedabad alone is home to at least 2 lakh shops and commercial establishments, and their operations would be impacted if the deadline is not extended. Traders on the other hand have also requested that vaccination must be taken up on a war footing. The government must ensure adequate supply of vaccines to ensure that all traders and shop employees are vaccinated.

If the supply is not adequate to meet the demand, how does one expect traders to voluntarily get vaccinated," said GTF president Jayendra Tanna. Serpentine queues of people were seen outside vaccination centres at Pandit Deendayal Auditorium in Bodakdev, Tagore Hall in Paldi and several other centres in Vastrapur and Maninagar areas of the city over the past few days. Last week itself, a vaccination camp for traders was organised at GCCI office on Sunday.

Vadodara businessman duped of Rs 46 lakh in online fraud

Ahmedabad : A city-based businessman was duped of Rs 46 lakhs by an unidentified person through online fraud. Sanjay Patel, a resident of Manjalpur, told the police that the accused siphoned the money from his bank account between July 25 and July 26. The cops are trying to trace the accused by following the money trail.

According to Patel, he received a SMS on July 24 informing that he had requested for a new SIM card and later his network was disconnected. He called up the customer care executive who confirmed that a request for a new SIM was indeed made from his number. Patel was asked to approach the mobile store from where the SIM was procured. Patel couldn't visit the mobile store immediately as it was closed in the evening and the next day was Sunday. He called up the customer care executive who confirmed that a request for a new SIM was indeed made from his number.

On July 26, he approached the mobile store to get his SIM activated again. In the evening, his number was activated following which he got messages about Rs 46.1 lakh being withdrawn from his bank in 14 different transactions. Shocked, Patel then approached his bank to gather details about the transactions.

The accused must have got details about Patel's bank account and he must have used the SIM to first change the password and then carried out the transactions," said a cybercrime sleuth.

MS University engineers don't need to pay Rs 1,000 after placements Ahmedabad: Graduating engineers will no longer have to cough up Rs 1,000 to become part of the alumni network of the MS University.

MSU's Faculty of Technology and Engineering (FTE) has decided to discontinue the practice of collecting Rs 1,000 from each student that passes out from the faculty and gets placement through the training and placement cell. "So far, we used to charge Rs 1,000 as alumni charges. It was a one-time charge collected from students who received placement through our training and placement office. But now we have decided to stop collecting such honorarium," said faculty dean professor C N Murthy. "We want students to first get jobs and once they grow big, they can support us in many of our endeavours," said Murthy, adding that the faculty also has a stronger alumni network. The suggestion to discontinue such a practice that started around 2010 was made by some eminent alumni. "All the graduates will now become part of our alumni network without any charge."
